Writing I (Recount Text)

Yesterday, I went to Bandung with my family. I was so exhausted to go there. We are five persons who go there, they are my dad, my mom, my two sisters and I. My dad drove for us. We sang all long day (my parents didn't like the songs because they are western songs, ha ha). We liked the trip so far.

While having trip to Bandung, my phone was rang suddenly. David, one of my classmate, called me. He asked me to have weekend by watching some movies in cinema. I replied him that I can't do that because I was heading to Bandung.

When we reached Bandung, we stopped to a hotel where it is our favorite hotel in Bandung. My two sisters, Zahra and Azalia, slept when my dad parked our car. After choosing one room with family purpose, we got relax there because tomorrow we will attend our colleague's wedding party.

Having favorite things is not my priority but I have one object that is very valuable for me. It is a t-shirt.

This t-shirt is special for me and it is different from my other t-shirt. My green t-shirt is an extra ordinary t-shirt for me because my uncle from Jeddah gives it to me when he came to Indonesia two years ago. One thing that I like from this t-shirt is the picture on it. There are two eyes with two lines on it, up and down. The left eye is close while the right is open with big volume. For me, the picture of two eyes describe when someone see something unconditionally. Also, the eyes seem the expression of unbelievable of one thing. From the color, I like green because it show me about fertile and productive.

These are the reason why I like t-shirt from my uncle.

Last year was memorable time for me because I joined Spelling competition in my school in celebrating 25th anniversary. I was so glad because I like English and try to improve my English skill by joining this competition. There were at least 20 competitors who take part in this competition.

The competitors were include class five – class nine students. I think they were quite smart and have the same passion with me in improving English skill. The questions were about the school such as history, education, teachers and also the foundation. As the questions given, it was announced for the big five, they are Keyser, Lintang, I (David), Falah and Zahra.

As the big five, the committee gave us harder questions than before. One by one was eliminated until the big three of us. Lintang, David and Zahra. The committee asked us to spell the word “anniversary” then I pointed my hand to answer. Unfortunately, I said “a-n-i-v-e-r-s-a-r-y”, then committee said “no, it’s incorrect”, the other competitor answer it well because I miss one letter “n”.

This event is made me to be more careful in answering the questions given.

I just got new shoes from my father. He bought me the shoes when he went to Singapore few weeks ago. By the way, I love the shoes so much.

The shoes color is white and black. The brand is Nike. I think they were quite expensive because my father doesn’t tells about the price. The shoes really makes me comfortable when I use it to walk everywhere. Also, they are light not weight. I think the shoes are suitable not only for the school but also for non-formal use one. I wear them to go to EF (my English course), to church on Sunday, and other places.

One day, there was a man who had wonderful parrot. He thought that his parrot is the best parrot ever. The parrot can say all the words except one word, Catano. He was happy because of having this parrot but he can’t understand why his parrot can’t say the word, Catano.

At the first, the man was glad to have this parrot but then he was angry to his parrot. The man pointed the bird by saying “You stupid bird”. He said angrily “Why can’t you say Catano? Is that the most difficult word for you? say Catano, or I kill you” said the man. However, the bird keeps silent and didn’t want to say Catano.

The next day, the man still asked parrot to say Catano but he still silent. Then he brought the parrot into the chicken cage. The man said “parrot, you’re stupid as these four chicken, then stay here with them”. After two hours, the man return to check the parrot and the chicken, he was so surprised because the man saw the parrot killing the chicken by saying “say Catano, or I kill you”.

Last week was my first experience for me to join camping. My parents never permitted me to join the camping before but their decision changes now. I was so glad to join the camping in my school with my friends.

I do some preparation such as checking the equipments for the camping. The committee give us some note to look at the items brought in the camping. I bought some snacks for the camping. I also don’t forget to put my blanket and jacket to keep me warm while in the camping.

The camping took 1 day and 1 night. For me the most memorable is in the night. The committee woke me and my friends in the middle of the night to have “night briefing – (“jurit malam”). Actually I was really tired and sleepy after doing some activities in the day but I have to follow the agenda overall.

I think it was unforgettable experience for me.
