

DESCRIPTION OF CAREER PLANNING READINESS OF STUDENT CLASS IX IN SMP NEGERI 2 JAKARTA

(2017)

AI KUSWORINI

ABSTRACT

This research aims to obtain information about the career planning readiness of students in 9th grade in SMP Negeri 2 Jakarta. The population of this study is 9th grade of 288 people and the sample in this study are 168 people with representation of each class is 21 people. Sampling technique is cluster sampling. The research method is descriptive survey. Data collection using career planning readiness inventory consists of 60 items statement and adapted from Career Planning Readiness Inventory Virginia Willis Gilbert (1992). Validity test results 50 items statement are valid and 10 items statement are drop, while for reliability test obtained results 0.895 which means very reliable. The results show that most of the students have career planning readiness in the high category (69,05%) and middle category (30,95%), and none of them is in the low category.

Keywords: Career Planning Readiness, Student