

Abstract

Hendra Kusuma Atmaja, Islamic culture of the archipelago in the Majelis Ulama Indonesia Management perspective, Jakarta: majoring in the science of the religion of Islam, Faculty of Social Sciences University of Jakarta, January 2017

The purpose of this research is to describe and analyze views of the Board of the Indonesian Ulama about Islamic culture of the Archipelago, the relationship between the values of Islam and the local culture and the attitude of management of the Majelis Ulama Indonesia to the local Islamic conflict and Islamic puritanism.

The type of research that is used in the preparation of this bachelor theses is descriptive qualitative research. Research technique that is used is the interview and study of the library. Data analysis techniques used in this research with how to reduce data, meyajikan data and draw conclusions. While the theory that is used is derived from the Qur'an Anthropology Dialectical Model of Revelation and Cultures of the local culture in the perspective of religion and the importance of Islam Nusantara.

Based on the results of the analysis, it can be concluded that the management of the Majelis Ulama Indonesia sees the Islamic culture of the archipelago as a culture that is produced through the process for acculturation between the values of Islam and the local culture. There are three relationship between the values of Islam and the local culture namely, first, Islam adopted the culture that is due in accordance with the Islamic framework, second, Islam accept but then merekonstruksi culture by removing the elements that are not in accordance with Islamic values, the third, Islam rejects the culture that is because it is not in accordance with the Islamic framework. The attitude of management of the Majelis Ulama Indonesia against the conflict is to give an understanding to the community that this is just the problem of furu'iyah throughout in accordance with Islamic values, so it does not need to be debated. Fellow Muslims must maintain relations to realize Islam be rohmatann lil 'alamin.