

Abstract

Muhamad ridwan. 2016. Liberalism In The Roman La Chartreuse De Parme By Stendhal. French Language Major. Faculty of Language and Art. Jakarta State University.

This study aims to determine the elements of liberalism what is contained in the novel La Chartreuse de Parme works of Stendhal. The element of liberalism is divided into two parts, namely freedom and equality. Furthermore, freedom consists of individual freedom, natural and negative. Then divided into equal equal political, economic and social. This research is a qualitative descriptive study.

The method used in this study is the dialectical method in which data associated with social background history. The approach in this research is the analysis of genetic structuralism to analyze the elements of intrinsic and extrinsic elements. In analyzing the intrinsic elements, used plot, characterization and background. Then to analyze the extrinsic elements, the data in the form of author biographies and background of social history. The instrument of this study is the researchers themselves to create a data table.

From the research, it was found that the data contains five individual freedom, the three data of natural freedom and negative freedom to eight data. Later it was found also one that has political equality, social equality and the two data no data was found to contain economic equality.

This research is expected to provide additional knowledge and resource for students in the Department of French Language Jakarta State University (UNJ).

Keywords: Politics, Ideology, Liberalism, Roman.