

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This undergraduate thesis entitled “Body and Mind as Sites of Identity Construction in Posthuman Space: Scott Westerfeld’ Uglies Trilogy’ is written to complete one of the requirement in finishing the English Literature study program and to graduate as an English Literature bachelor of State University of Jakarta. In the process of the writing, I got so many support—material and morale—from the people in my life. I am very grateful for finishing this undergraduate thesis where I have met many challenges and obstacles during the process of writing. The writer will not be successfully finished this undergraduate thesis without those who have been supporting the writer before, during, and after the writing. Therefore, I want to say my special thanks to:

1. Allah SWT, for always being by my side, for answering all my prayer. I am so grateful of everything You have been given to me.
2. My beloved family: My Father, Mother, sisters, and Coco the cat for the laughter and prayer we share all the time. You are the biggest supporter of my life.
3. Mrs. Atikah Ruslianti, M. Hum as the Head of English Literature Study Programme and my thesis advisor, Mrs. Eva Leiliyanti, Ph.D as my academic advisor, Mrs. Diyantari, M. App, Ling as my second thesis advisor, Mrs. Ellita Permata Widjayanti, M.A and Mrs. Hasnini Hasra, M.Hum as my thesis examiners and all the lecturers. Without your guidance and advice, I would never finish this thesis.
4. The students of 13SA: Aaw, Ales, Ayu, Clara, Jeco, Lita, Melani, Ope, Puspa, Ranti, Regina, Ijal, Sarah, Ucha, Zintia, Feby, and Rizab. You gave me the best 4 years in my life. Thank you for all the laughter, joke, support, knowledge, and experience we shared.
5. Kaprodi Squad: Ajeng, Jeni, Ucha, and Tiara. We have shared ideas, sweat, and tears, but in the end, we get the gold we want.

I realize that this thesis is far from perfection. Therefore, I openly accept suggestion regarding the improvement and for the future writing. Finally, I hope this thesis is helpful for everyone inside or outside the university.
