

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to thank Allah SWT as my first savior. Without Allah, I wouldn't had made it this far. The writer would also send her gratitude to everyone who supports behind this research along the process.

1. Thank you for my father and mother, Faisal Mahendra Silapurna, S.E and Eva Kusumadewi for all the support and prayers. Special thanks for the writer's aunt and uncle, Ria Kusumawati and Denny Danandjaya.
2. Thank you for the writer's advisor, Aisah, M. Hum, and the head of English Literature of English Department, Atikah Ruslianti, M. Hum and all the lecturers in English Department, UNJ.
3. Thank you for Della, Derry, Regina, Hana, Arsyia, Feby, and Melani for being the most helpful, supporting, and kind person who helps the writer through all of the ups and downs journey in college.
4. Thank you for EDDC members, Ka Egi, Ka Tata, Leiny, Andrian, Arry, Puti, and all that has dedicated so much in developing my ability and skills especially in public speaking and in literary criticism.
5. Thank you for all the students of English Department, especially friends from English Literature major, 13 SA and 13 SB. Also to my skripsi team, Jeco, Ales, Faris and Hana.
6. Thank you for all the #PLEASE crew, Della, Arsyia, Veren, Ghifar, Lia, Mia, Amos, Gavi, Eki and Rafni for major surprises, sharing good advices, and experiences because after all we are in a different major and universities.
7. Thank you for all my past co-workers from Prudential, Club Med Bali, The Goodsdept, Reebonz, and high school students from Labschool who has given me knowledge and experiences in multiple different field. Therefore, I am shaped and born into the person I am right now.