

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

5.1 Conclusion

In state of Freudian psychosexual development and Lacanian mirror stage comes from the distinction between inner and outer experience from August as the disabled person. Inner comes from the self of August as a disabled person, makes him aware and try to realize his own problem of real world which establish his psychosexual development.

Outer experience comes from his family and friends around him. As a disabled person August scare about socializing with each other, until Via push him and stand with him to face his problem that he never felt before. His mother takes the important role in his development in mirror stage where mom is the best place to tell about everything. For August, mom is everything in the world. His friends at school like Jack and Summer also teaches him what the meaning of bestfriend is. August then realize that school is not as worse as he thinks, and finally he enjoy his school regardless from all the problems he faced.

The figure of mother is bolder showing by his own mother act at home and takes a good role as a real mother and although the figure father is thinner at home August feels the role of father in school by his principal, Mr. Tushman. August feels that the support from his family and friends are really important; through it can create his own meaning of wonder in his life.

5.2 Recommendation

By following August's story conclude that becomes a disabled person is not easy. August shows the struggle of life even though he is just 10 years old. The pressure from his friends makes him try to face the world and the important thing in his life is a support from his family especially from mom in establishing his psychosexual development.

The researcher hopes that this reasearch give the contribution in a literature major. The researcher suggests to those who are interested in the same field of psychology from Freudian and Lacanian in order to conduct a research about psychoanalysis it would be better if the research also supported with children literature issue and deeper with Ferdinand de Saussure's theory about structuralism.
