

Abstract

ERNI TRI SETIA LESTARI. The Apocalypse of Phonemes in Children with Aphasia Development: A Neurolinguistic Study, Thesis, Indonesian Literature Study Program, Faculty of Languages and Arts, Jakarta State University, July 2017.

This study aims to obtain information about the phonemic impingement on children with developmental aphasia. The method used is qualitative with descriptive approach. This study used a voice record conducted in May 2017 at Klinik Bina Wicara, Jalan Kramat, Central Jakarta. The focus of the research is the vowel phonemes and consonants and objects in this research is the speech that comes out of children with aphasia expressive development. Many phonemic imprints occur in the middle, at the beginning, and at the end, either on vowel or consonant phonemes. The research instrument is also assisted by performing a modified tadir test. Based on the research of children with development aphasia many experiencing of the consonant phoneme percolation then followed by vowel phonemes. Many vowel phonemes are being phoned / a /, while the consonant phoneme that is experiencing a lot of phonemes / r /.

Keywords: phonemic and aphasia development