Achmad Robi Afrilihadi, Women's Political Caucus of Indonesia's Activities in Increasing Women's Political Participation at Bogor City, Skripsi, Jakarta: Pancasila and Citizenship Education Study Program, Faculty of Social Science, State University of Jakarta, Mei 2016.

The lack of women participation in politic at Bogor City was the background of this research. Women's representative should be at least 30% as stated in UU No. 8 Tahun 2012. This regulation was also supported by another rule that a party will not be included in the election if it has not fulfilled the 30% quota of women's representative.

Qualitative method was used in this research to describe the problems comprehensively. In this research, observation, interview and documentation were done with Kaukus Perempuan Politik Indonesia (Women's Political Caucus of Indonesia) and Komisi Pemilihan Umum (General Elections Commission) as the Key Informant and Senior High School teacher, members of Pembinaan Kesejahteraan Keluarga (Family Welfare Movement) and other institutions as informants.

The result showed the activities of Women's Political Caucus of Indonesia in increasing women's political participation which involve pupils, women's organizations also people in Bogor City. The activities were include Capacity Building for women, training for women in school level, Road Show to political party, consolidation with women's organization, and debriefing for the legislative candidate. Those activities increased the women's political participation in Bogor City with women's representative number of 11% became 18% on 2009. Opinion that politic is not for women and the lack of budget became the hurdle of Women's Political Caucus of Indonesia's activities.
